II. Relevant Regulatory Principles and Definitions

13. The Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act ("FATCA") was a federal law enacted in March 2010 that targeted tax non-compliance by U.S. taxpayers with foreign accounts. Although enforcement did not commence until July 2014, FATCA required U.S. persons to report their foreign financial accounts and offshore assets. Additionally, FATCA required foreign financial institutions to report to the Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”) certain financial information about accounts held by U.S. taxpayers or foreign entities in which U.S. taxpayers held a substantial ownership interest. FATCA also targeted the non-reporting and the non-withholding (30% on certain U.S. source payments made to foreign entities) by U.S. financial institutions based on material misrepresentations about the beneficial owners of the foreign accounts.

14. An international business corporation (“IBC”) was an offshore, untaxed company, formed under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction, which was not permitted to engage in business within the jurisdiction in which it was incorporated. An owner of an IBC could deposit money and transfer stock to an IBC to facilitate banking and securities trading activities while maintaining a level of anonymity for the IBC’s true owner because an IBC’s ownership records were typically not publicly available.

15. The term “beneficial owner” was defined under the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”). It included any person who directly or indirectly shared voting power or investment power (the power to sell a security). When a person or group of persons acquired beneficial ownership of more than 5% of a voting class of a company’s equity securities registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, they were required to file a Schedule 13D with the SEC. Schedule 13D reported the acquisition and other information within ten days after the purchase. The schedule was filed with the SEC and was provided to the company that issued the securities and each exchange on which the security was traded. Any material changes in the facts contained in the schedule required a prompt amendment.

16. The term “nominee” referred to a person or firm into whose name securities or other properties were transferred in order to facilitate transactions, while concealing the customer as the actual owner. A “nominee account” was a type of account in which a stockbroker held shares belonging to clients in the name of a sham entity or another individual. The use of nominees and nominee accounts was designed to conceal the true ownership interest of the customer.

17. “Microcap” or “penny” stocks referred to stocks of publicly traded U.S. companies which have a low market capitalization. Microcap stocks were often subject to price manipulation because they were thinly traded and subject to less regulatory scrutiny than stocks that traded on notable exchanges. Additionally, large blocks of microcap stock were often controlled by a small group of individuals, which enabled those in the group to control or orchestrate manipulative trading in those stocks.

18. Wash trades were purchases and sales of securities that matched each other in price, volume and time of execution, and involved no change in beneficial ownership. For example, a wash trade took place when Investor A bought 100 shares at $5.00 per share of Company A through Broker A while simultaneously selling 100 shares at $5.00 per share of Company A through Broker B. Matched trades were similar to wash trades but involved a related third person or party who placed one side of the trade. For example, a matched trade took place when Investor A bought 100 shares at $5.00 per share of Company A through a broker, while Investor B, who coordinated with Investor A, simultaneously sold 100 shares at $5.00 per share of Company A through a broker. Both wash trades and matched trades were used to create the appearance that the stock price and volume rose as a result of genuine market demand for the securities.

19. A “pump and dump” scheme was a scheme where a group of individuals who control the free trading or allegedly unrestricted shares, also referred to as the “float,” of a microcap company fraudulently inflated the share price and trading volume of the targeted public company through, inter alia, wash and matched trades, false and misleading press releases and paid stock promotions. When the target company’s share price reached desirable levels, the individuals sold their free trading shares for substantial financial gain.

III. The Fraudulent Scheme

A. Overview

20. In or about and between January 2009 and September 2014, the defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA PSYLLAKIS, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN, also known as “Jim Can,” ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC, together with others, devised and engaged in a scheme whereby they agreed to: (a) defraud investors and potential investors in various U.S. publicly traded companies through, inter alia, the fraudulent concealment of the true beneficial ownership interests in the various U.S. publicly traded companies, and the engineering of artificial price movements and trading volume in the stocks of the various U.S. publicly traded companies; (b) defraud the United States by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating the lawful governmental functions of the IRS in the ascertainment, computation, assessment and collection of revenue; and (c) launder money by facilitating financial transactions to and from the United States, which transactions involved proceeds of fraud in the sale of securities.

21. In or about and between January 2009 and September 2014, the defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as "Bob Bandfield," GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as "Stamps" and "Charlie Wolf," BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA PSYLLAKIS, ~~KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN,~~ also known as "Jim Can," ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC, together with others, created numerous shell companies and bank accounts through which passed more than $250 million in fraudulent proceeds connected to more than 100 clients.

22. The defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as "Stamps" and "Charlie Wolf," controlled a group of approximately a dozen individuals (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Mulholland Group"), which was responsible for fraudulently manipulating the stock of more than forty U.S. publicly traded companies and then transferring, through attorney escrow accounts associated with five offshore law firms, more than $250 million in fraudulent proceeds into, inter alia, accounts controlled by the Mulholland Group in the U.S. and Canada.

B. The Undercover Operation

23. Beginning in approximately November 2012, a law enforcement agent posing as a stock promoter engaged in fraudulent trading activity (the "Undercover Agent") was directed by John Doe 1, an employee for the now-defunct Bahamas-based broker-dealer Gibraltar Global Securities, Inc. whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, to LEGACY and TITAN. John Doe 1 advised the Undercover Agent that LEGACY and TITAN could establish an IBC for the Undercover Agent to facilitate his stock promotion business, and that same day, sent an email to the Undercover Agent providing him with the contact information for the defendant KELVIN LEACH.

24. In or about January 2013, the Undercover Agent, while located in the Eastern District of New York, placed consensually-recorded telephone calls to the defendants KELVIN LEACH and ANDREW GODFREY. During these telephone calls, the Undercover Agent explicitly stated that he was a U.S. citizen who was interested in opening an offshore brokerage account with TITAN. The Undercover Agent added that he was a stock promoter who wanted to conceal his ownership of stocks and money transfers in order to avoid scrutiny from the SEC and the IRS. LEACH informed the Undercover Agent that TITAN did not open individual accounts in the name of U.S. citizens but explained that TITAN could open a brokerage account for the Undercover Agent through an IBC that could be created by IPC CORP.

25. Shortly thereafter, the defendant ANDREW GODFREY informed the Undercover Agent that IPC CORP could establish a corporate structure that concealed the Undercover Agent's ownership interest in his brokerage account at TITAN, which would provide the Undercover Agent with the desired protection he sought from the SEC and the IRS. Specifically, GODFREY explained that IPC CORP would establish a limited liability company ("LLC") and an IBC for the Undercover Agent and designate IPC CORP's employees as the beneficial owners, or more appropriately, the nominees. In this fraudulent structure designed to conceal the Undercover Agent's control and ownership, the IBC, which opened the Undercover Agent's brokerage account at TITAN, would be owned by the LLC and the Undercover Agent's name would not be associated with either entity.

26. In or about October 2013, after the Undercover Agent had paid $3,300 for the IBC and LLC and the brokerage accounts at LEGACY and TITAN established for him by IPC CORP to conceal his true beneficial ownership, the Undercover Agent made consensually-recorded telephone calls to the defendants BRIAN DE WIT and KELVIN LEACH. During these telephone calls, in furtherance of the Undercover Agent's fraudulent scheme to conceal his true beneficial ownership of his brokerage account, DE WIT and LEACH confirmed to the Undercover Agent that IPC CORP had established brokerage accounts, not in his name, but in the name of the Undercover Agent's designated IBCs.

27. On or about November 6, 2013, the Undercover Agent met with the defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as "Bob Bandfield," and ANDREW GODFREY at IPC CORP's office in Belize. The entire meeting was recorded by the Undercover Agent with a recording device. During this meeting, BANDFIELD and GODFREY explained, in great detail, how IPC CORP assisted U.S. citizens, like the Undercover Agent, in evading U.S. laws and regulations, including the IRS's reporting requirements, by establishing sham IBCs and LLCs. To assure the Undercover Agent of IPC CORP's expertise with managing this fraudulent arrangement and BANDFIELD's own experience in dealing with clients seeking to manipulate the markets and effectively transfer money and stock into and out of the United States without leaving a trail, BANDFIELD revealed that he had created TITAN and LEGACY and had incorporated more than 5,000 sham companies. BANDFIELD then suggested means by which the Undercover Agent could circumvent the SEC's reporting requirements by concealing his beneficial ownership of more than five percent of a public company's stock through nominee accounts, and the IRS's reporting requirements by having a nominee sign IRS Forms W-8BEN for the Undercover Agent's IBCs and LLCs. An IRS Form W-8BEN is a form which notifies the IRS that a foreign individual is the beneficial owner of funds that are subject to tax withholding. Finally, BANDFIELD and GODFREY explained that IPC CORP would soon offer its clients prepaid MasterCards that allowed for transfers of up to $50,000 per month, adding, "we can make it so it's not attached to you."

28. That same day, the Undercover Agent also met with the defendant ROHN KNOWLES in the presence of the defendant ANDREW GODFREY. Consistent with the defendant ROBERT BANDFIELD's explanation of IPC CORP's fraudulent coordination with LEGACY and TITAN, KNOWLES acknowledged that TITAN could not open an account for U.S. citizens, like the Undercover Agent, without IPC CORP's IBC and LLC arrangement. When the Undercover Agent explicitly indicated that he wanted to engage in fraudulent market manipulation through wash trades and matched trades between two accounts controlled by him, KNOWLES stated that he could orchestrate those trades through close coordination with the defendant BRIAN DE WIT at LEGACY, and stated that "me and Brian do it all the time for other clients."

29. A few months later, on or about March 4, 2014, the Undercover Agent met again with the defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as "Bob Bandfield," and ANDREW GODFREY at IPC CORP's office in Belize. This meeting was also recorded by the Undercover Agent with a recording device. During this meeting, BANDFIELD and GODFREY touted, inter alia, IPC CORP's success in establishing fraudulent corporate structures, including six IBCs and two LLCs for the Undercover Agent in order to conceal the Undercover Agent's true beneficial ownership of the brokerage accounts at LEGACY, TITAN, UNICORN and two additional broker-dealers. BANDFIELD explained that this “slick” structure was specifically designed to counter U.S. President Barack Obama’s new laws, a reference to FATCA.

BANDFIELD and GODFREY advised the Undercover Agent that the designated nominees, who included a security guard and courier, would sign any stock purchase agreements on behalf of the IBCs at the Undercover Agent’s direction. As payment for IPC CORP’s services, the

Undercover Agent gave BANDFIELD and GODFREY $9,600 in cash and was informed that IPC CORP would refund the earlier $3,300 paid via PayPal to erase the paper trail.

30. Following this meeting, the defendant ANDREW GODFREY escorted the Undercover Agent to UNICORN’s office where GODFREY introduced the Undercover Agent to the defendant CEM CAN, also known as “Jim Can.” GODFREY informed the Undercover Agent that IPC CORP conducted a significant amount of business with UNICORN and that UNICORN expedited the opening of accounts for IPC CORP. After the Undercover Agent explicitly revealed his intentions to manipulate the stock of a publicly traded company, CAN confirmed that IPC CORP’s scheme of establishing sham IBCs and LLCs enabled UNICORN to execute trades for U.S. citizens like the Undercover Agent. To further conceal its clients’ true beneficial ownership and fraudulent activities, CAN explained that UNICORN provided its clients with unidentifiable debit cards which could be used by UNICORN’s clients to pay “consultants” in stock manipulation schemes. CAN also advised the Undercover Agent to keep his wire transfers to Belize under $50,000, and vary the amounts, because a wire transfer of $50,000 and over caused banks to inquire into the source of funds.

31. Following his return from Belize, the Undercover Agent continued communicating with the defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” BRIAN DE WIT, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN, also known as “Jim Can,”

and ANDREW GODFREY, in furtherance of the Undercover Agent's purported scheme to conceal his true beneficial ownership, engage in market manipulation of publicly traded companies, evade reporting requirements and the payment of taxes to the IRS and transfer proceeds of fraud in the sale of securities to and from the United States. For example, on or about April 9, 2014, during a consensually-recorded telephone call between LEACH and the Undercover Agent, LEACH confirmed that any wire transfer requests to TITAN must go through IPC CORP and that IPC CORP's nominee must execute stock transfers. When the Undercover Agent explicitly stated that he wanted to orchestrate trading in the stock of a publicly traded company between LEGACY and TITAN, LEACH responded that TITAN worked well with LEGACY.

C. The Mulholland Group and Other Corrupt Clients

32. After the enactment of FATCA in March 2010, the defendants LEGACY, TITAN and UNICORN put disclaimers on their websites that they would not accept U.S. clients. Contrary to these representations, LEGACY, TITAN and UNICORN continued to have U.S. clients, so long as the clients concealed their U.S. ties through the defendant IPC CORP's fraudulent IBC and LLC structure. Shortly after the enactment of FATCA, the Mulholland Group became one of IPC CORP's largest clients.

33. On or about and between March 21, 2014 and May 22, 2014, law enforcement authorities conducted judicially-authorized wiretaps of two IPC CORP, one TITAN and one LEGACY telephone lines, specifically: 305-671-3493 (IPC), 503-305-3897 (IPC), 305-395-7896 (TIS) and 888-400-5461 (LGM). Additionally, on or about and between May 1, 2014 and May 30, 2014, law enforcement authorities conducted a judicially-authorized wiretap of TITAN telephone line 305-407-8426. These five judicially-authorized wiretaps (collectively, the “IPC-TIS-LGM Wiretaps”) and emails obtained through judicially-authorized search warrants revealed that the fraudulent IBC and LLC structure devised and controlled by the defendant ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” and his co-conspirators, extended far beyond the arrangement with the Undercover Agent.

34. The results of the email search warrants confirmed that the defendants ~~ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA~~ PSYLLAKIS, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN, also known as “Jim Can,” ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC, together with others, were engaged in a scheme with more than 100 U.S. and foreign clients (the “Corrupt Clients”), including the defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” to evade, inter alia, U.S. securities and tax laws and conceal their fraudulent activity and illegal proceeds through IPC CORP’s fraudulent IBC and LLC structure.

35. For example, on or about September 6, 2013, the defendant BRIAN DE WIT sent an email to the defendant ANDREW GODFREY requesting that UNICORN waive its account opening fee of $1,000 because “we agreed to open accounts at each others['] firms and we don’t charge such a fee . . . .” On or about November 6, 2013, the defendant ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” sent an email to Corrupt Client 1, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, forwarding IRS Form W-8BEN signed by GODFREY as the nominee for the IBC in response to a request received by Corrupt Client 1 from a U.S. transfer agent. On or about December 4, 2013, the defendant KELVIN LEACH sent an email to BANDFIELD informing BANDFIELD that a client requested that $75,000 be wire transferred from a brokerage account to a law firm in the United States. On or about December 16, 2013, the defendant ROHN KNOWLES sent an email to BANDFIELD, copying LEACH, in which he forwarded an email from Corrupt Client 2, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, requesting six wire transfers totaling $1.9 million for various IBCs.

36. ~~The IPC-TIS-LGM-Wiretaps further confirmed that the defendants,~~
 together with others, were engaged in a scheme to evade, inter alia, U.S. securities and tax laws and conceal their fraudulent activity and illegal proceeds through IPC CORP's fraudulent IBC and LLC structure. For example, on or about March 24, 2014, Corrupt Client 3, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, asked the defendant ANDREW GODFREY, whose name he received from the defendant KELVIN LEACH, to have IPC CORP establish an IBC for him to enable him to trade through TITAN. On or about March 26, 2014, Corrupt Client 4, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, called GODFREY and stated that his biggest concern was getting his funds wired back into the United States. In response, GODFREY advised Corrupt Client 4 that he/she could use his/her IBC account at UNICORN and UNICORN's unidentifiable debit cards to transfer his funds. On or about March 28, 2014, Corrupt Client 5, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, called the defendant ROHN KNOWLES to inquire about his trading order and wire transfers to a third party. In response, KNOWLES stated that TITAN could execute third-party wire transfers but reminded Corrupt Client 5 that he needed to send the wire instructions through GODFREY or "whoever the signatory is on the account." On or about May 19, 2014, GODFREY called Corrupt Client 6, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, and stated that IPC CORP's fraudulent scheme using sham IBC and LLC structures was created to evade the IRS, specifically FATCA.

On or about May 29, 2014, LEACH called a representative at Cayman National Bank to confirm three wire transfers, including one wire transfer that was requested in the name of an IBC.

D. The Stock Manipulation Schemes

37. The Corrupt Clients, including the defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” utilized IPC CORP’s fraudulent IBC and LLC

~~structure and brokerage accounts in the names of the IBCs at offshore brokerage firms such as~~

LEGACY, TITAN and UNICORN to facilitate pump and dump schemes involving hundreds of microcap or penny stocks.

(i) Cannabis-Rx, Inc.

38. Cannabis-Rx, Inc. (“CANA”) was a microcap or penny stock company which traded under the ticker symbol CANA on the OTC markets. CANA’s purported business plan consisted of serving the real estate needs of the regulated cannabis industry in states where such business was licensed and permitted. CANA’s purported business plan also consisted of purchasing real estate assets and leasing facilities to licensed marijuana growers and dispensary owners for their operations.

39. The defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA PSYLLAKIS, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN, also known as “Jim Can,” ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC, together with others, conspired with certain of the Corrupt Clients to fraudulently manipulate the price and volume of CANA’s stock. Specifically, the true beneficial owners of a significant amount of CANA’s free trading or unrestricted stock

had concealed their ownership interest through BANDFIELD and IPC CORP's fraudulent IBC and LLC structure, and DE WIT and PSYLLAKIS, through LEGACY, were actively involved in the fraudulent manipulation of CANA's stock price and volume. For example, on or about and between March 27, 2014 and April 16, 2014, DE WIT and Corrupt Client 7, an individual whose identity is known to the Grand Jury, engaged in a series of orchestrated transactions which ~~resulted in CANA's stock price plummeting from $13.77 per share on March 27, 2014 to $0.50~~

per share on April 16, 2014. On March 28, 2014 alone, DE WIT received at least five telephone calls from Corrupt Client 7 with specific instructions to fraudulently orchestrate the trading of CANA's stock. That day, CANA's stock, which had not traded since July 2, 2013, had a trading volume of 189,800 shares and the share price plummeted from the previous day's closing price of $13.77 per share to a closing price of $1.90 per share.

(ii) Vision Plasma Systems, Inc.

40. Vision Plasma Systems, Inc. ("VLNX"), formerly known as Bonanza Land Holdings Inc. and vLinx Technology Inc., was a microcap or penny stock company which traded under the ticker symbol VLNX on the OTC markets. VLNX purported to be a technology company that manufactured and sold portable plasma gasification systems for the remediation of hazardous wastes.

41. The defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as "Bob Bandfield," BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA PSYLLAKIS, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN, also known as "Jim Can," ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC conspired with the defendant GREGG

MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” and others, to fraudulently manipulate the price and volume of VLNX’s stock. Specifically, in or about June 2011, approximately 100 million shares of VLNX were issued to ten different IBCs created by IPC CORP. MULHOLLAND paid for and beneficially owned nine of these ten IBCs, which in turn owned approximately 84 million shares of VLNX stock. Thus, MULHOLLAND, together with the Mulholland Group, beneficially owned and controlled at least 84 percent of the free-trading shares of VLNX, which was concealed from the investing public in violation of SEC rules and regulations.

42. On August 16, 2012, AwesomePennyStocks.com and other penny stock promotional websites sent email blasts to their subscribers that VLNX was their new “pick.” Prior to August 16, 2012, there was no trading activity in VLNX. On August 16, 2012, the daily trading volume was 308 million shares and the stock price, which opened at $0.14 increased to an intraday high of $0.39 before closing at $0.30. On August 16, 2012, the nine IBCs beneficially owned and controlled by the defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” sold more than 83 million shares of VLNX, primarily through LEGACY, resulting in approximately $21 million in proceeds.

(iii) Cynk Technology Corp.

43. Cynk Technology Corp. (“CYNK”), formerly known as Introbuzz, was a microcap or penny stock company which traded under the ticker symbol CYNK on the OTC markets. CYNK purported to be developing a web-based social network service in which people would pay for introductions to celebrities, business contacts and “even the right squash player.”

44. The defendants ROBERT BANDFIELD, also known as “Bob Bandfield,” BRIAN DE WIT, PAULA PSYLLAKIS, KELVIN LEACH, ROHN KNOWLES, CEM CAN,

also known as “Jim Can,” ANDREW GODFREY, IPC MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LLC, IPC CORPORATE SERVICES INC., IPC CORPORATE SERVICES LLC, LEGACY GLOBAL MARKETS S.A., TITAN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES INC. and UNICORN INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES LLC conspired with the defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” and others to fraudulently ~~manipulate the price and volume of CYNK’s stock. In or about and between April 2012 and~~ September 2012, the Mulholland Group wire transferred $1,524,000 from an account controlled by the Mulholland Group to an Introbuzz account at Bank of America. In June 2012, approximately 75 percent of Introbuzz’s initial public offering of stock was purchased by relatives and close associates of Co-Conspirator 1, a member of the Mulholland Group whose identity is known to the Grand Jury. On or about August 29, 2012, PSYLLAKIS sent an email to Co-Conspirator 1 informing him that he needed BANDFIELD’s assistance for the placement of Co-Conspirator 1’s “Chinese nationals” as the “nominee shareholders” of various IBCs, including three IBCs that later owned the vast majority of CYNK’s free trading shares. MULHOLLAND paid IPC CORP for these IBCs.

45. In or about May 2013, Co-Conspirator 1 reserved the name “Cynk Technology Corp.” with the Secretary of State of Nevada. On or about June 21, 2013, Introbuzz announced that it had amended its name to CYNK Technology Corp. and updated its ticker symbol to CYNK. Throughout 2013, Co-Conspirator 1’s relatives and close associates sold their CYNK shares to three IBCs controlled by the Mulholland Group.

46. On or about May 15, 2014, the defendant GREGG MULHOLLAND, also known as “Stamps” and “Charlie Wolf,” placed a telephone call to the defendant BRIAN DE WIT, and in reference to CYNK stock, MULHOLLAND stated that “[Co-Conspirator 1 is] working on the CEO scenario right now, you know, resignation,” and that “we have all the free trading [shares].” Prior to this conversation between MULHOLLAND and DE WIT, there had been no trading in CYNK stock since on or about April 9, 2014, or for 24 trading days. On or about May 15, 2014, the stock closed at $0.06 per share following trading of 1,900 shares.

Beginning on or about June 17, 2014, trading activity in CYNK increased to 367,400 shares

~~traded on that day, and the stock price increased from an opening price of $0.18 per share to a~~ closing price of $2.25 per share. From approximately June 17, 2014 through July 10, 2014, despite having no revenue or assets, more than 2 million shares were traded, CYNK’s share price increased from a closing price of $2.25 per share to a closing price of $13.90 per share, and

CYNK was valued at more than $4 billion as a result of the fraudulent manipulation by the

Mulholland Group. A number of offshore brokerage firms, including LEGACY and TITAN, traded in CYNK stock. On July 11, 2014, the SEC suspended trading in CYNK.
